Education:

Machine Knitting, continuing education at Rhode Island School of Design
June 12th - July 19th, 2007.

Instructor: Anne Emlein, <http://www.risd.edu>

B. Eng, Mechanical Engineering.
McGill University, Montreal, QC, Canada, Class of 2003.

In Print:

Not Another Teen Knitting Book, Vickie Howell, 2006. Sterling.

Design: Dancer's wrap with matching leg warmers

Concept: Faux wrap pullover to mimic the look of a dancer's ensemble, while being more wearable for anyone who may or may not be graceful like a ballerina. Inspired by my teenage cousin, who is an avid and relatively graceful dancer herself.

Online:

The Anticraft, Lughnasadh 2007.

Design: "Painted Lady", a cropped knit pullover.

Concept: A very cropped raglan, knit in one piece from the top down with long sleeves and built-in fingerless gloves. Intended as a project for using up many different, complimentary colors of "stash yarn" in one garment. Fashioned after the gothic DIY styles.

Knitty, Summer 2005, The Man Issue.

Design: "Blue Hills", a knit ski hat.

Concept: A ski mask without the mask. Something a little unusual to keep the neck warm while on the ski lift.

Seamless v. 2.0, Boston Museum of Science, February 1, 2006.

Design: "Hidden Agenda", multi-purpose, protective street wear.

Concept: The world is becoming a place where, at a moment's notice, you may need to protect yourself. But no one wants to walk around in armor, living in fear. This outfit allows the wearer to feel like a normal, fashionable member of society, while concealing a particle mask, eye and ear protection, and heavy duty gloves that can be changed into should danger strike.

Boston Knit Out and Crochet 2005, Fashion Show, Boston Common.

Design: Black and White Bomber Jacket.

Concept: A handknit version of the puffy, cropped bomber jackets ubiquitous among hip hop videos and Kimora Simmons collections.

Seamless, MIT Media lab, May 20, 2005.

Design: "Resistance", a collaboration with Christine Liu. Handknit hat with built-in headphones.

Concept: Electrodes allow the dreamer to listen to their subconscious while they sleep. Hopefully they awaken to a better understanding of themselves.
